STATE AID: MAIN FEATURES

State aid is a competition law matter, not a tax law matter.

Proceedings take place between the EU Commission and the Member State, meaning the taxpayer that can end up footing the bill is not fully represented.

When a Member State appeals a state aid finding in tax matters, it finds itself in the unusual position of contesting its obligation to collect taxes.
STATE AID: BUILDING BLOCKS

A measure is illegal state aid if:

1. It is granted by state resources

2. It confers an advantage to undertakings

3. It is selective and

4. It affects trade between Member States and distorts or threatens to distort competition

Image credit: taxadvisermagazine.com/Stockphoto/Gajus
STATE AID: PROCEDURE

Worst case scenario

1. Negative COM decision + formal illegality (new aid granted without notification)

2. Recovery decision against Member State: from each beneficiary (+ interest)

3. Retroactive for (at least) 10 years, overriding domestic statutory limitations
ADVANTAGE AND SELECTIVITY

Both are based on comparisons but of a different kind

‘Advantage’ requires a comparison…

• … with normal treatment (often market terms)
• not really with the treatment of other companies

‘Selectivity’ requires a comparison…

• … with the actual treatment that the Member State grant to the rest of the companies established in its territory…
• … provided that they are in a comparable legal and factual situation
INDIVIDUAL AID VS. AID SCHEMES

Two families of fiscal aid cases:

- Tax rules based on selective criteria: tax advantages that only benefit certain undertakings/activities/behaviours (as compared to others), e.g.:
  - The Spanish goodwill deduction in the acquisition of foreign entities;
  - The excess profits ruling system in Belgium;
  - The group financing exception to CFC rules in the UK (investigation phase); etc.

- Discretionary decisions by tax authorities, e.g. the so-called “tax rulings” cases
THE SPANISH GOODWILL CASE
A LONG STORY

Financial goodwill in the Spanish CIT Law
Only in the acquisition of foreign holdings… by any Spanish taxpayer

State Aid investigation
Following several complaints

EC Decision #1
State Aid in intra-EU acquisitions

Appeals before the GC and Recovery orders
Not affecting pre-2007 acquisitions (but DT claims full recovery)

EC Decision #2
State Aid in non-EU acquisitions

Appeals before the GC and Recovery orders
Not affecting pre-2007 acquisitions and some other particular cases
EC Decision #3
State Aid in the acquisition of holding entities (?)
But no recovery, since…

The General Court annulled Decisions #1 & #2
T-219/10 Autogrill
T-220/10 Santander

The EC filed a cassation appeal before the ECJ

The case is back to the General Court to discuss #1, #2, #3, the DT appeal…

The ECJ annuls the GC judgments C-20/15P and C-21/15P World Duty Free (ex-Autogrill)/Santander

THE END ???
SELECTIVITY LESSONS

Can a formal exception to the tax system, materially available (de iure and de facto) to all undertakings be selective?

“Of course not!”, the GC said – the rule is open to all companies and do not benefit a particular category of undertakings/buyers.

“Why not?”, the ECJ said:

- Selectivity does not require identifying a category of undertakings.
- Measures favouring certain behaviours may be selective.
- So, even a measure open to all undertakings may be selective if treats differently two situations (e.g. domestic vs. foreign acquisitions) that are legally and factually comparable.
SELECTIVITY LESSONS

- But now the cases are referred back to the GC
  - Did the EC prove that foreign and domestic acquisitions were in a similar situation?
  - Did it consider other tax provisions offering the same treatment to domestic acquisitions?

- The real problem with this ECJ judgement is rather for the State aid system:
  - Now, even tax measures open to all undertakings may be considered selective
  - Institutional balance/tax sovereignty seriously in question
  - Need of a much more realistic definition of the ‘reference system’
SOME CONCLUSIONS

- According to the current EC’s (and ECJ’s) trend, open-to-all tax measures benefiting certain activities are in principle selective, so Member States must be ready to:
  - Prove that the tax exception is justified; or
  - Notify the (supposed) aid to the EC and get a clearance in advance (so avoiding recovery issues).

- Does this make sense?

- SA is not an instrument for EU harmonisation
THE RULINGS
CASES
Rulings give companies certainty and clarity as to how their tax will be calculated and are “perfectly legal”

However, rulings will be regarded as providing a selective advantage if they have the effect of “granting the undertakings concerned lower taxation than other undertakings in a similar legal and factual situation”

THE US REACTION

“The Commission’s actions could threaten to undermine foreign investment, the business climate in Europe, and the important spirit of economic partnership between the US and the EU.”
US Treasury

“The Commission has got itself now in a position where it’s a bunch of plumbers doing electrical work……The Commission has probably bitten off more than it can chew.”

TAXAND
APPLE CASE: PRESENTATION BY THE EC (IP/16/2913)
THE APPLE CASE

Negative decision issued August 2016

• Choice of allocation method unacceptable: based on attribution of Apple IP licences to stateless head offices which exercise no relevant activities
• Method used did not have any factual or economic justification
• ‘Reverse engineering’ to reach a particular amount of taxable income
• Method agreed in 1991 ruling applied for over 15 years without revision
• Amount to be recovered may be reduced if other countries impose tax or if US authorities require subsidiaries to pay more to US parent for R&D
THE APPLE CASE

Reaction from Apple
- EU’s decision is “seriously flawed” and implies Apple products are designed in Ireland, rather than the US
- “Since virtually all of our research and development takes place in the United States, according to the law, we pay the majority of our taxes in the US…The Commission’s ruling is contrary to the tax principles that other countries around the world have adhered to for decades.”

Reaction from Irish State
- Disagrees profoundly with the Commission’s analysis. “Ireland does not do deals with taxpayers”
- Tax rules from which Apple benefited available to all and did not violate EU or Irish law
IMPACT OF APPLE CASE ON IRELAND

- Revenue increasingly reluctant to issue client specific rulings on technical issues.
- Revenue unwilling to provide guidance on hypothetical fact patterns.
- Revenue focused on ensuring that administrative practices which are of importance to corporates and multinationals are up to date and aligned with BEPS.
- Greater awareness among businesses operating in Ireland of the need to comply with State Aid law.
ADVICE FOR CURRENT & FUTURE RULINGS

- Time to review all rulings obtained in EU in order to determine your risk profile
- Lessons learnt from the current state aid procedures for future and current APAs in order to reduce the risk:
  - Prepare robust transfer pricing documentation
  - Substantiate the choice of TP method & why it fits the activities
  - If the profit is in any way capped, explain why
  - Substantiate the outcome
  - Substantiate choices made in the benchmark more thoroughly
  - Bilateral APA is preferable
- Reduce term of the ruling to five years
- If it’s too good to be true, then…

TAXAND
RECOVERY AND PROCEDURAL ISSUES: OTHER PRACTICAL ASPECTS
RECOVERY ISSUES

- A Spanish tax advantage not available in e.g. Germany, is not State Aid by itself (only if discriminates other Spanish taxpayers) but can give rise to a State Aid complaint by e.g. a German competitor

- The Member State that granted the aid is normally compelled to defend it (not always, Spain did not appeal against Decisions #1 and #2) but, at the same time, will benefit for the recovery. Spain is now recovering Decision #3, which has not even heard by the GC

- Unless legitimate expectations, recovery can go back to 10 years of aid (deductions) plus interest

- Recovery is not suspended by the court appeals, unless very exceptional circumstances arise. No chances to defer payment (by providing guarantees) in Spain. Suspension is probably easier for the State than for the companies

- Recovery is a matter for the State
  - State should use the most effective measures available in their national legal systems to recover the aid
- Do amounts recovered constitute a “tax”? EC has said it may. Some jurisdictions expressly provide such amounts are “tax”
- Can recovery of state aid give rise to foreign tax credits? Depends on jurisdiction:
  - Whether recovered aid is recognised as a “tax”
  - Whether voluntary taxes (i.e. tax paid as part of a settlement) are creditable
- Taxpayer should get agreement from tax authority that a tax assessment will be made if the court finally determines it has been in receipt of state aid
- If MS fails to seek recovery (or delays) EC can initiate infringement proceedings

TAXAND
IMPACT ON M & A

- Company which has received aid and sold at an arm’s length price - aid recovered from seller (Banks [Case C-390/98]) but if shares sold at less than market value - recovery may be sought from purchaser (Commission v Germany [case C-277/00])

- Risk allocation point - focus for particular sectors

- Due diligence on prior rulings and concessions issued to the Target Group

- General warranty that target has not been in receipt of state aid

- Cover under general tax warranties/ tax indemnity?
  - Do amounts payable in respect of state aid constitute “Tax” for purposes of warranties/indemnities?
  - Subject to normal limitations (financial cap and time limits for claims)
  - 10 year look back is problematic
CLIENT CONSIDERATIONS

- Consult your tax advisor if in doubt
- Reduce reliance on historic rulings that may have been issued by tax authorities as these could potentially be open to challenge
- Option of asking tax authority to submit ruling to EU on whether specific arrangement constitutes state aid – most likely a costly and lengthy exercise
- “Nice to have” rulings – a thing of the past, replaced by opinions
- In the absence of rulings or opinions, may need to accept the fact that there may be less certainty in areas of non-legislative tax law
- “Necessary” rulings still available
- Rulings now mandatorily exchanged (Council Directive 2011/16/EU on administrative cooperation in the field of taxation)
- If subject to state aid proceedings, seek agreement from tax authority that a tax assessment will be issued in the case of a negative court decision - to ensure credit will be available

EC PROPOSAL FOR THE DEFINITIVE REGIME

CONTENTS

1. Towards a definitive regime for intra-EU trade
2. Transitional Provisions (“quick fixes”)
3. Other Proposals already published
4. Proposals pending publication
BACKGROUND

- The Green paper on the future of VAT

- A definitive regime based on the principle of taxation at origin is abandoned
  - The need to tackle fraud and, particularly, carousel fraud
  - The need to simplify the application of the rules, formal obligations…
  - So as to avoid making it more difficult to trade within the EU than with third territories (legal certainty, harmonisation) or domestically
  - Towards a simpler, more efficient and neutral, robust and fraud-proof system
BACKGROUND

Consultation process with stakeholders: 12 different alternatives to tax intra-EU transactions are considered

Four final options:

- Physical flow of goods + tax charged by supplier
- Physical flow of goods + tax reverse charged
- Contractual route + tax charged by supplier
- Contractual route + reverse charge

Plus keeping the current rules with some adjustments to improve the system (proposal by the GFV)

Report on the different options
EXPECTED PROPOSAL (ACTION PLAN 2016)

- Elimination of the double taxable event for a single transaction (zero-rated supply + intra-EU acquisition of goods)
- System based on the physical movement of the goods
- By which the supplier will have to charge VAT to the recipient
- VAT accrues in the country of destination of the goods
- Declaration and payment through the OSS
- Reverse charge by Certified Taxable Persons (“CTP”)
- Proposal expected in 2018 with a view of its provisions being applicable in 2022
- Future extension to services
The definitive regime is a medium-term objective

In the meantime, several improvements to the current arrangements need to be introduced

These affect to:

- Chain transactions
- Proof of intra-EU dispatch
- Consignment stock (call-off stock) transactions
- Substantive requirements for intra-EU zero-rated supplies (VAT Number, ESL)

Certified Taxable Persons (“CTP”)
CERTIFIED TAXABLE PERSON “CTP”

- Status for reliable taxable persons so as to have access to certain simplifications particularly in fraud-sensitive areas:
  - Definitive regime – reverse charge
  - Chain supplies
  - Call-off stock

- Similarities with AEO

- Criteria to grant the status:
  - Track record: absence of serious infringements
  - High level of control of operations and flow of goods
  - Financial solvency

- Integration in the VIES
“QUICK FIXES”. CHAIN TRANSACTIONS

- How to allocate the transport to a specific supply where there are subsequent sales with a single transportation (A-B-C)
- Discrepancies in the application of this criterion – uncertainty
- The proposal concerns the cases in which the middleman takes care of the transport (which is the case in which controversies may arise)
  - If B (taking care of the transport) is identified in a different MS other than the one of the supply and communicates the MS to which the goods will be dispatched to his supplier – transport ascribed to the first transaction
  - Otherwise, transport ascribed to the second supply
  - A and B must be CTPs
“QUICK FIXES”. CALL-OFF STOCK

- Transfers of goods to another MS for their subsequent supply to an already known buyer (as opposed to consignment stock)

- Direct intra-EU supply (and when) or deemed intra-EU transaction + local supply?

- Proposed solution:
  - Intra-EU supply / intra-EU acquisition (no transfer of own goods)
  - When transfer of title takes place
  - If both parties are CTPs
  - Specific VAT accounting obligations + ESL
Amendment to Implementing Regulation 282/2011

Need for harmonisation and legal certainty

List of documents that may support the transport to another EU MS so that:

- If the transport is made by the supplier (or on his behalf) and he is a CTP, a rebuttable presumption applies by which the transport has taken place if he holds two non-contradictory documents of the list.
- If transport by acquirer (also if CTP), the supplier would need a declaration by the acquirer that the goods have been dispatched, plus two non-contradictory documents of the list.
“QUICK FIXES”. FORMAL REQUIREMENTS BECOMING MATERIAL

- Request from the MS

- As per EU Case Law, the VAT number of the recipient is not a material (substantive) requirement for the exemption to be applicable in an intra-EU supplies

- Non-compliance with formal requirements does not generally impact the rights granted by the Directive

- As a reaction to this, MS suggested (and the Commission Proposal includes) that:
  - VAT number of the recipient – granted by another EU MS -becomes a substantive requirement for the zero-rate to apply
  - The transaction has to be properly reported by the supplier in the ESL also as a substantive requirement
GENERALISED REVERSE CHARGE

- Temporary measure requested by some MS (until 30 June 2022)
- Applicable to:
  - All transactions over a 10,000 Euro threshold
  - If VAT Gap of at least 5 percentage points above average
  - Provided carousel fraud represents more than 25% of the VAT gap
  - Other measures not effective
- May be extended to countries with a common border with a risk to the fraud shifting to their territories
- Electronic reporting obligations
- Subject to authorisation and monitoring by the Commission
CROSS-BORDER B2C E-COMMERCE AND RATES ON E-BOOKS

- Changes in the taxation of distance selling:
  - Transactions to be taxed where the customer is located
  - Extension of the MOSS to these sales
  - 10,000 Euro threshold

- Elimination of the exemption for the import of small consignments

- Applicable to non-EU suppliers (generally through intermediaries)

- Other minor adjustments in connection with electronically supplied services

- Option for MS to apply the same rates to books and e-books
EXPECTED PROPOSALS (CALENDAR)

- VAT regime applicable to SMEs (expected November 2017)
- Proposal on rates, modernising the system on the basis of the principle of taxation at destination (expected November 2017)
- Definitive regime (intra-EU trade) expected in Spring 2018

IRELAND – ONSHORE IP STRUCTURE

- Irish TradeCo carries on its trading activities as before. Claims IP amortisation allowances against its trading income, either based on accounts or through an elective 15 year write down.
- Finance Bill 2017 announced an annual limitation of 80% of Irish Trade Co’s profits for IP acquired after 10 October 2017.
- Significant levels of onshoring of IP since 2015.
- MNCs aligning substance and IP ownership.
- Impact of EU proposals on the taxation of the Digital Economy.
IRELAND – TAX AUTHORITY REACTION

- Ireland only introduced transfer pricing for accounting periods commencing after 1 January 2011
- Irish tax authorities are increasing TP resources
  - Increased TP audits

THE BUSINESS REALITY

- MNE usually opt to be present in foreign jurisdictions through Limited Liability Companies rather than through branches/PE.

- PE regularisations do not lead to a change in the MNE type of presence (i.e. no operations through a PE) but rather to a change of the TP policy.

- PE regularisations “should” require a thorough discussion on the attribution of profits to the PE.

- By remunerating properly the risks and functions taken by the local subsidiary the outcome (re income taxes) should be similar to that of a PE assessment.
P.E. IN THE DIGITAL ECONOMY

Is the PE discussion different from other industries?
- Vertical reporting lines
- Organised through business lines
- Decisions and strategies set-out at HQ level
- Business operation through local subsidiaries
